Using a Body of Evidence

When using Flowcharts to sort students into instructional groups, it is important to collect and use a body of evidence to inform the grouping process. Consider the following questions when grouping students using Flowcharts.

- Is this the right group for this student?
- Is this the stage of reading development the student needs the most support with?
- Does this student fit with the other students in the group?
- What other data will help?
- What other sub-tests should be considered?
- What data do we have from classroom assessments?
- What data do we have from formative assessments?
- What data do we have from intervention assessments?
- How can item analysis from sub-tests and other assessments help pinpoint instructional needs even further?

Goal Setting

Teachers may need to set targeted growth goals for and with students in Group C, as students at or above the 50th percentile are not always on track to meet state assessment expectations. For Colorado schools, the CMAS/NWEA Linking Study shows that students around the 70th percentile or higher are more likely to meet CMAS expectations. Example: A 3rd-grade teacher may set a year-end goal of approximately 206 RIT to increase the likelihood of meeting CMAS Met Expectations in the spring. Other states may use similar resources to identify NWEA/MAP goals aligned to their state assessment.

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |                                                     |                                               |                                               |                                       |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                        |                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                  |                                                              |                                    |                                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                        |                                                      |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                |                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                  |                                                      |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Foundational Skills, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                |                                                                                                                                                    |                                                                                                                                        |                                                                                                                                                  |                                                      |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                |                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                  |                                             |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                       |                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                           |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                       |                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                                                                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                                                                          |                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                              |

If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group.

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                              |                                              |

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |                                                      |                                                                                                                                           |                                   |                                                                                                                                       |

If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group.

If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group.

| If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group. |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |                                                      |                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                              |

If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group.

If additional information is needed for instruction, it is recommended that a phonics survey or a program diagnostic be used to cross-check the needs for Groups A and B. It is recommended that teachers analyze the additional subtests within MAP to ensure correct placement and the correct group focus (stage of reading development). Example: If a student scores high on Vocabulary but significantly lower on Literary Text and Informational Text, that student may need to move down to a lower group.
